The Asphalt Company Gets It in the Neck.

They Are Given Forty Days In Which to Fill Their Contract.

C. 12's Asks For Damages For Being Deprived of Irrigating Fluid.

The City Council met in regular session on Monday night, with Mayor Booth in the chair. The only absentee was Councilor Liddiard.

A petition from the Provo City Railroad company, asking the appointment of Wm. R. Probert as special policeman on all trains, was read and granted. The appointment was accompanied by the endorsement of City Marshal John A. Brown.

The following communication from C. 12's was referred to the committee on irrigation:

To the City Council of Provo City:

GENTLEMEN—Your petitioner respectfully represents to your honorable body that he is the owner of the N. W. 1/4 of Section 28, T. 33 N., R. 10 E., S. 4 E., Provo City survey of building lots, and is cultivating the same in fruits and vegetables.

That before the time for commencing irrigation this year, he went to the deputy watermaster, James Gray, to learn when the proper time for watering said lots would occur.

That he was then informed by Gray that the time would be the same as last year. The last year he was allowed the use of water, said lots from 4 p. m. every Tuesday.

That he accordingly took the water at the time mentioned on Tuesday at 4 p. m. That while he was so using said water on Tuesday, between the hours of 4 and 7 p. m., the said Gray came and took your petitioner's water gate, and accused him of stealing the water, threatening to prosecute him if he interfered with him again, and informed your petitioner that his time to water was Thursday between the hours of 4 and 7 p. m.

That your petitioner waited till Thursday, when he again took the water, as he was instructed by said Gray. In a few minutes W. S. Rawlings took the water above your petitioner, and on consulting with said Rawlings he produced his water certificate, showing that the said Rawlings had a right to the use of said water thereupon your petitioner gave it up, and told Gray, who then informed him that the said Gray did not know when your petitioner could have the water.

That Walter Scott published in the Evening Star a statement to the effect that your petitioner was guilty of stealing water. That by reason of said annoyance and loss in the crops of your petitioner he has been damaged in the sum of one hundred dollars. Wherefore your petitioner prays that you will allow him that amount.

THIS YEAR'S TAXES.

The City's Assessment Runs Up to $3,000,000.

An Interesting Interview With the Assessor on the Question.

A Reduction of $153,000 This Year Over the Assessment of 1890.

THE DISPATCH man invaded the City Assessor's office Monday, and had a long interview with the assessor, who was sitting up in order to arrive at the sum total of the assessment.

"You have about completed the assessment, I suppose?" we asked.

"Yes, sir, I will submit it to the Council to-night."

"Can you give the total yet?"

"Not very exact; but it will not fall much short of three millions."

"How much of a reduction is this from last year?"

"Well, according to figures it will only be $153,000; but this is a case where figures prevaricate."

"How so?"

"Ah! You no doubt remember that some of our enthusiastic boomers claimed that Provo made one million dollars' worth of improvements last year; but, suppose it was half of this sum, yet the assessment falls short over $150,000. You will then see that the reduction is nearly half a million dollars. In other words, the present year is like the lean cattle in 'Pariah's' dream, it swallowed up all the improvements of the fat boom year, and it seems to be anxiously looking for more."

"Will this reduction in the assessed value make the tax less than last year?"

"I don't know, but I think not; the City Council has great latitude in the levying of the tax. It can go up to ten mills on the dollar. Last year it was three mills. It is not reasonable that the city's expenses will be much less, and one mill is already levied by the City Board of Education for the city schools."

"Was the reduction made even on all the property?"

"No, not exactly even; the shrinkage in values are more on residence property and the farm land, than on the central business property, and on those two classes of property, most of the reduction fell."

"Do you find it very difficult to get at the property of the people for assessment?"

"No, not generally speaking; the real estate is the largest of record, and at my suggestion, the Council had a set of plats made, on which is located each person's property, with his name. It is something, though, to keep track of the changes which have been very numerous, last year especially. Of course you cannot weigh real estate like flour or sugar; you have to guess at the relative value, and this is the test that chiefly tries the assessor's judgment. The mortgages also are matters of record, and can be got at. And while very few persons feel to brag of their possessions when the assessor calls, yet the great majority are willing to bear their share of the public burden. Last year there was a great deal of harsh and, to my mind, unjust criticism heaped upon the assessors for the raising of the values; but this was caused by a combination of circumstances over which they had no control. First was the new revenue law, demanding a full valuation; next the free schools, which had to be supported by taxation instead of tuition fees; and, finally, the boom, which sent real estate up in the clouds for a brief season. But for all that, there was scarcely any property sold for taxes, and the people paid the value of their money in education for the young, and in needed public improvements; so we are not so very much hurt after all."

"Are you a Democrat, Mr. Samuel?"

"Excuse me, sir; but I draw the line here; I have twenty pages of this assessment roll to add up yet to-day. I believe I tried to court Democracy a few years ago, but it did not much encourage in my suit."

"And with a merry twinkle in his eye, and resuming his pencil, the assessor said:

"Politics some other time. Good day."
